

From the onset of an exploration program through geological evaluation, to mine development and planning, and mine operations, Rudplan provides a sound approach to the complex puzzle of determining and then developing an economical mining property.

Rudplan's experience in the mining sector covers the full range of services and minerals. Rudplan works very closely with the client's team to prepare scoping, pre-feasibility and feasibility studies, full scale mining operations planning, mine closure plans, and environmental management plans to stringent guidelines imposed by legislative bodies on mining operations. This work has been successfully provided to clients in the local marketplace.
